A. E. MICHAEL'S,
A GOOD PLACE TO TRADE.

All for a Thousand Dollars

A clever piece of work was done last week by Officer Smith. It appears some party or parties connected with the grain trade in Edmonton arranged a phoney bill of lading on a car of grain supposed to have been shipped from Caravel, and asked the grain company in the City to advance a sum of money on the B.L. with the further request that this be sent to Stony immediately. A gent dropped off the train from Edmonton the next day, walked up to the P.O. and asked for this letter which contained a check for $1000, saying he wished to catch the next train to the City. He got back to Edmonton alright, but it was in the company of Mr. Smith, who caught him near the stockyards after a short chase. He gave the name of J. Swan. He appeared before Magistrate Primrose in Edmonton, and was allowed out on bail.

Graduates from Practipedic School.

Mr. Paul Werney, of Stony Plain, has just graduated and received his certificate of graduation from the American School of Practipedics of Chicago. Mr. Werney states that practipedics is the knowledge of extending foot comfort thru the intelligent use of the famous foot comfort appliances invented by Dr. Scholl. The noted foot specialist. Mr. Werney's ambition is to drive foot troubles from this community and send every person out of his store with comfortable feet.

Celebrate Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Willie, of Stony Plain, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday Oct. 12. Mr. and Mrs. Willie were married in Kitchener, Ont., by Rev. Mr. Alberts, Baptist minister at that place, on Oct. 13, 1874. Mr. Willie came west in 1889 and located on a farm north of the town of Stony Plain. His wife came a year later to make a home in the West.

Ten children were born of the union, seven of whom are living--two sons and five daughters. There are 36 grand-children (17 girls and 21 boys) and 2 great-grandchildren.

The relatives living near met at dinner to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Willie on the 50th anniversary of their wedding day. There were many neighbors and friends who called during the day to offer their best wishes.

On Monday evening the Ladies' Aid and Women's Institute of Stony Plain held a surprise party for the purpose of presenting Mrs. Willie with an amethyst brooch as a token of their esteem. Mrs. Gates made the presentation address, and Mrs. J. Malloch added a few words in congratulation.

It was a very happy affair, about 20 ladies being present.

A dainty tea was served, which brought the evening to a close.

LOCAL NEWS.

Miss Memora L. Forester, daughter of Wm. Forester, who left here three years ago to reside at Balcarres, Sask., was back in Stony this week, on a visit to old friends.

Rev. W. B. Farnham has re-organized the congregation of St. Oswald's Church, and will hold another service in Stony in the near future.

Mrs. Oakway returned to Stony Tuesday evening after a five-day stay in an Edmonton hospital.

Mr. Goodale, the vegetable inspector, has made several flying visits to Stony lately, and is keeping a pretty good eye on the stuff being shipped. So far, about 21 cars of spuds have left Stony this fall.

The program committee of Stony Plain High's Lit. meet tomorrow at 4, to arrange for a Halloween party the evening of the following Friday, the 31st.

The threshing rig recently traded in by Mr. Litzenger has been sold and shipped to Mr. Cooper, Wolf Creek, by M. Ducholke.

"Red" Gilbert, the man who was accidentally shot in the foot last week on the Carmichael ranch, is making good progress toward recovery. The bullet is still lodged in his foot, and will not be molested for some time yet.

A prominent local implement agent is making his rounds at present with his hands swathed in bandages. He and a friend were out shooting ducks last week, and the shooter mistook the shootee for a moose, so he says.

Under the auspices of the Women's Institute, an apron and handkerchief shower, also sale of home cooking and candy will be held at the home of Mrs. Malloch on Saturday next, Oct. 25, from 2 to 5 p.m. All are cordially invited.

Three cars of hogs were shipped from Stony Thursday last, when up to $c was paid in some cases. A rumor around the Stockyards says Mr. August Meredith, the well-known stockman, has been offered the local managership under the new Live-Stock Pool.

While a wagon load of potatoes was being received at a local track warehouse, the team became unmanageable and backed the wagon off the platform, throwing Mr. Odgers' legs over to the ground, injuring his right arm, and injuring Hy Sinner's young son, but not seriously.

Stony Plain Rifle Club is holding a Halloween dance in Ducholke's Hall on the evening of Friday, October 31st.

A supply of licenses--bird game, pig game, and trappers--has been received at The Sun office, and may be had at any time.

Shall Parliament Be Supreme?

The decision of a majority of the members of the Board of Railway Commissioners ordering the withdrawal from operation of the Crown's West Pass freight rates, raises one of the biggest domestic issues ever confronting the people of Canada. The question involved in this amazing order is not merely one of dollars and cents to the people based on the rates of freight they shall be called upon to pay. Important as this economic aspect of the question may be, it fades into insignificance compared with the legal and constitutional questions involved.

The issue now before the people in Canada is whether the Parliament of Canada is the supreme power in the making of laws, or whether a body of some half-dozen men created by that Parliament has the right to nullify and set at naught an Act of Parliament. By the decision of four members out of six, the Board of Railway Commissioners arrogate to themselves full power to treat an Act of Parliament as "a scrap of paper," and by so doing impose on the people of Canada heavier taxation in the shape of railway freight rates than have the approval of Parliament.

And the Act of Parliament thus flouted is one ratifying and giving effect to a contract entered into by the Government of Canada acting for the people as a whole with the Canadian Pacific Railway. Therefore, another issue raised by the decision of the Board of Railway Commissioners is the sanctity of contracts. If the C.P.R. is not bound to fulfill its contract with the people of Canada as set forth in the Crown's West Pass Agreement, the question at once arises whether the people of Canada are bound to fulfill their part of the original C.P.R. contract providing exemption from taxation in perpetuity for C.P.R. property in these Western Provinces.

Furthermore, if the C.P.R. is not bound by its contract to maintain the lower freight rates provided for in the Crown's West Pass Agreement, how can the Canadian National Railways, as the successor of the old Canadian Northern, be bound by the rates provided for in the Agreement with the Parliament of Canada under which that railway was extended westward across the prairies?

Under the Crown's West Pass Agreement, which the Railway Board now sweeps aside as in a no way binding on the C.P.R. in the matter of freight rates as specified in that contract, the C.P.R. received from the people of Canada a cash bonus of $11,000,000 per mile to assist in the construction of the Crown's West Pass railway. The C.P.R. accepted those millions of dollars and thereby obtained direct access to the rich mineral districts of Southern British Columbia and largely secured control of the traffic of that region which formerly had gone over a short line into the United States. In exchange for this financial assistance the C.P.R. agreed to reduce freight rates on a selected list of articles below the then existing lower freight tariff. Now the Railway Board rules that the C.P.R. is not bound to live up to its contract, and declares that the power of the Board to thus nullify the contract and impose higher freight rates on the people of Canada is superior to the power of Parliament itself.

Aside altogether from the financial considerations involved, the people of Canada will not for one moment accept the dictum that a Commission created by Parliament is superior to its creator. Under the British form of constitutional government, Parliament is supreme. Courts are created to interpret and administer the laws passed by Parliament, but they cannot make laws nor over-ride those passed by Parliament. And the Board of Railway Commissioners are constituted as a Court which hears evidence and renders decisions.

It is true that the Act creating the Board of Railway Commissioners instructs and empowers that Board to remove any discriminations in rates or in traffic arrangements which may exist. It is also to be admitted that the tariffs filed by the railway companies under the Crown's West Pass freight rates did constitute discrimination in various ways and between places. But in exercising its powers and discharging its duty in bringing about a removal of such discrimination, the Railway Commission is bound to recognize and respect other Acts of Parliament and specific contracts entered into by Parliament. There are other ways of removing the discriminations created by the railways themselves in the freight tariffs filed by them than to accept the arguments of the lawyers employed by these railways, over-ride an Act of Parliament, and increase rates.

By their decision the majority of members of the Board of Railway Commissioners have raised a real issue in Canada and have started something which they cannot control. Certain it is, the people of Canada will never consent to their Parliament occupying an inferior position to any other body in the country, and least of all a body which Parliament itself created.

Manitoba Man Wins Scholarship

Selected For Scholarship Donated By
W. C. Macdonald, Reg'd. Inc.,
Tobacco Manufacturers,
Montreal

R. M. White, a native of Darlington, Man., has been selected as Manitoba's nominee for a $500 post-graduate scholarship in scientific agriculture, tenable at Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., leading to the degree of M.Sc. This is one of ten scholarships annually donated by W. C. Macdonald Reg'd. Inc., tobacco manufacturers of Montreal. Under the terms of the gift two of the scholarships are awarded to Quebec nominees, this by reason of the bilingual situation there. The remaining eight go one to each province.

In donating these scholarships, which have an aggregate value of $5,000 each year, W. C. Macdonald, Reg'd. Inc., is adhering to the policy of its founder, the late Sir William Macdonald, who in his lifetime gave many millions of dollars for the advancement of scientific and technical education in the Dominion of Canada. Sir William Macdonald realized at a time when the fact was not apparent to others, that progress in the Dominion would depend in a large measure upon the facilities offered for scientific and technical education. Without education in these lines being readily available it would be impossible properly to develop the country's natural resources or to advance its basic industries, agriculture. Accordingly he gave away millions. Part of his princely benefactions established and maintain Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, where these scholarships are tenable and which is one of the finest institutions of its kind in the world. Part of them went to the establishment of a faculty of engineering at McGill University. Part went to the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph.

Mr. White, who represents Manitoba at this year's post-graduate course, took grades 9, 10 and 11 in the Morden High School in '04, '05 and '06, and spent the following two winters in the Manitoba Agricultural College. From 1909 until the outbreak of war he was engaged in various capacities in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia, enlisting in October, 1914, in the 27th Battalion. He was in France from September, 1915, until wounded at Cambrai in October, 1918. He returned home in March, 1919, and spent the following year on the farm near Darlington, later securing a position as field supervisor with the Soldier Settlement Board of Alberta. He spent nearly a year and a half at this work and then registered for his B.S.A. at Manitoba Agricultural College. He became interested in entomology and obtained a position at Treeshank where he is now spending his third summer. He was a member of the team that represented Manitoba at the Royal Agricultural Show and won first and second prizes in the straw aggregate and gold medals for swine and beef cattle. He obtained a medal in this judging contest.

The Solid And Secure Position Of Canada Is Described By Lord Beaverbrook

Interesting observations on "My Journey in Canada" by Lord Beaverbrook appear in his paper, the London Express, in a recent issue. Lord Beaverbrook's article follows:

The Canadian dollar is now at parity of exchange and often at more than parity. In other words, the Canadian dollar is normally worth as much as the American dollar and on occasion more. Canada's currency is therefore today as good as the best in the world, and soundness better. And this fact is, of course, but a reflection of the unbounded prosperity of the Dominion. Yet how many people are there in Europe, outside strictly business and financial circles, to whom this news will not come as a surprise? We are too accustomed to look for currency values to New York and to forget Montreal or Toronto—possibly because they happen to be inside the empire.

The Canadian dollar is valuable because Canada is rich and prosperous. Its prosperity springs from three great primary sources of national wealth. There are the minerals, the gold and the silver of Ontario, looking to the west there are the vast wheat fields of the prairies—themselves exploited in a manner of industrial efficiency which suggests the operation of mining from the soil rather than the old agricultural methods in vogue in England. Looking again to the east, Canada is mining the vast forests, which nature has spread so abundantly for her to supply Fleet Street and the world with newsprint. The timber cut, the logs go to the mill, the wood pulp to the paper machines, and the forests groan in order that the journalists may perpire. Canada, in fact, is one great national mine of undeveloped resources.

Such are the vital resources of the Dominion. And in consequence of their vigorous exploitation there is in Canada "dole" today. The unemployed have not to pay a tax to maintain the unemployed, and the finance of the state is not therefore subjected to this onerous drain. There is no unemployment problem in the Dominion in the sense in which we are compelled to face it in Great Britain—that is to say of persistent unemployment over long periods due in no way to the fault of the worker. The unemployed in Canada under ordinary conditions are simply those who are physically incapable of prolonged labor or those who have a natural distaste for the sort of employment which lies to their hand.

There are other factors which have enabled the Dominion to make its astounding recovery from the effects of the war and the bad world conditions which accompanied the post-war period. Among these I would place her admirable banking system. It is the soundest in the world and the strongest. I have not looked into the figures, but I feel sure that the savings of Canadians per head exceed those of the people of any other country, not excluding the United States. The heads of the banking world are therefore of primary importance to the safe and prosperous conduct of Canadian life and industry. Their relative standing is enhanced by the fact that Canada, unlike the powers and nations of Europe, has practically no external difficulties. Her problems are purely internal, and it is this fact which makes the banker, rather than the politician, the King of Canada.

Another vital factor in the progress of the Dominion will be found in its educational system. Education is free to everybody, and all children attend the same schools on a footing of absolute equality. In this way the intelligence of the whole mass of the people is given a free vent, and the resources in real truth and acuity that equality of opportunity of which the democrats have always dreamed. And I attribute the great progress that the country is making largely to the fact that there is nothing to prevent any lad in any walk of life today taking the place and playing the role now occupied by men like Sir Vincent Meredith and Sir Herbert Hall—as the new generation succeeds the present one. The knowledge that this is so gives a tremendous stimulus to the energies of the individual. He desires himself to developing the resources of his country and not grumbling about the limitations of a life which has in fact no limitation.

To a sound system of education there is added a sound theory and practice of government. Canada enjoys excellent administrations so that we may hope that good government has become a matter of fixed habit. All governments have, of course, their critics, and rightly so, for the criticism of an opposition is an essential factor in the working of a democratic constitution. None the less it is true that the government of the Dominion is better both in quality and character than that of the United States. It is demonstrably more efficient.

Waste In Smoke Slight

Most of Coal Goes Up Chimney As Atmospheric Gases

Every time a ton of coal is burned in the family furnace, seventeen tons of gas go up the chimney, sixteen of which are the gases of the atmosphere, either free or in combination with the elements of which the coal is formed.

A little more than twelve tons are of nitrogen, which goes through the fire unchanged. Nearly four tons of oxygen are needed to burn the coal and this oxygen all goes up the flue as carbon dioxide, sulphur dioxide and water vapor.

Most of the coal, 1,500 pounds or so, also goes up the chimney, principally as carbon dioxide, less than one part in a hundred forming smoke.

Several of the largest construction jobs completed recently in Oakland, Cal., and vicinity, were carried out by a woman contractor, Mrs. E. E. O'Brien.

Brick From Saskatchewan Clay

Deposits at Claybank Are Being Successfully Exploited

More than 2,000,000 face and fire bricks and 760,000 hard burned vitrified brick for roundhouse work for the Canadian National Railways have been manufactured at Claybank, Sask., this year, according to T. M. Molloy, commissioner of the bureau of labor and industries, who returned from a tour of inspection of clay deposits in Southern Saskatchewan.

Dr. Chas. Canwell, deputy minister of the Federal department of mines, and A. J. C. Nettell, Vancouver, British Columbia representative of the geological survey, accompanied Mr. Molloy on the trip.

Dr. Canwell expressed himself as surprised at the extensive area, covered by clay deposits in Southern Saskatchewan and was greatly interested in studying fossils of the different clays visited to determine their age and origin. He found the clay, free from impurities and of good texture.

Mr. Molloy said next year will probably see a big reduction in the import of fire brick and refractory shapes due to the extended use of Saskatchewan clays. Lignite coal is being successfully used in the early stages of the manufacture of fire clays at Claybank and experiments are being conducted to find a way of using lignite in all stages of the production if possible.

It is claimed there is enough clay in sight at Claybank to permit of the manufacture of 50,000 bricks a day for the next 200 years. The normal capacity of the plant at Claybank is 10,000 to 15,000 bricks a day, and the full capacity 25,000 a day.

General Agricultural Situation Is Much Better Than Appearances First Indicated

The Experimental Farm System

Farms Established in Districts Where They Will Be Of Most Assistance

Much interesting and valuable information is contained in the report for 1923 of the Director of the Dominion Experimental Farms, Mr. E. S. Archibald, B.A., B.S.A. It tells in concise and condensed form of the things in 1923 of the fourteen divisions of which the Central Farm at Ottawa consists, of the twenty-three branch farms and stations, of the half-dozen sub-stations in Yukon Territory, in Northern Alberta, Northern British Columbia, and Northern Quebec, and of the illustration stations, the number of which was increased during 1923 from 89 to 125. There were, when the report was prepared, six illustration stations in Prince Edward Island, fifteen in Quebec, seven in Ontario, twenty in Saskatchewan, twelve in Alberta, and thirteen in British Columbia. In every instance these stations are established in districts where it is considered they will be of most assistance to farmers. With every province having its farms and stations extending east, west, south and to the opened-up districts of the north, it will be seen that the Dominion Experimental Farm system penetrates to all the corners of the country.

British Girls For Canadian Homes

A party of British girls, for all of whom positions have been provided in Canadian homes, arrived a few days ago at the Canadian National Depot in Winnipeg. Some of the party remained in that city, while others left for positions in Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster under the escort of Salvation Army officers.

From the time the first forecast of the 1924 wheat crop of Western Canada was hazarded, estimates have been continually rising until the latest government figures to be published show a drastic variance from those which were based upon conditions in the earlier part of the season. Once more Western Canada has shown that such are the recuperative powers of its soil and climate over a poor start, that it is never safe to venture a dogmatic opinion as to the ultimate outcome of the harvest. What many accepted as a situation of some gloom and pessimism has changed to one of realization that the state of things is, on the whole, satisfactory.

As a matter of fact, the situation is even better than that and justifies a much more pronounced attitude of satisfaction and optimism. Inevitably the 1924 wheat crop is regarded in a comparative light with the figures of the phenomenal and record yield of 1923 ranged mentally alongside. The comparison is, however, not carried far enough and the realization drawn home that only on four occasions in the history of the Canadian West has a greater volume of wheat been harvested than that forecast in the latest government figures, which must too, be regarded as being on the conservative side, as other expert authorities place the anticipated yield twenty per cent. higher. The government estimate indicates a greater wheat yield than that harvested in any year since 1915, with the exception of 1921, 1922 and 1923. If values are taken into account, the 1924 wheat crop of Western Canada becomes yet more significant and farmers should beget to a substantially greater extent from the 1924 harvest than the previous years. The prices prevailing last year brought to the prairie provinces for their wheat crops a total of $294,598,000. At the prices at which it is anticipated the 1924 wheat crop of this territory will be sold, the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta should receive at least $300,000,000.

The wheat crop of the Canadian prairie provinces has such a bearing on world supply, is coming to mean so much more annually in this regard, and is so easily the largest single productive item in this territory, that its volume and value have come to be almost universally accepted as standards of general agricultural production and as indicators of the average prosperity of the farming population. As a matter of fact, this is becoming true to a lesser extent each year.

At the present time the wheat crop of Western Canada accounts for barely fifty per cent. of the agricultural revenue of that area. Whilst wheat acreage is increasing at a healthy, normal rate, the many phases of mixed activity are more rapidly growing in popularity. Such issues as cattle and hog raising, dairy production, poultry and eggs, and apiculture are coming to mean a great deal more in revenue to the western farmer, and his financial standing is tending to get farther away from dependence upon the wheat crop alone.

In the general betterment the year has brought in most of these agricultural lines, a greater revenue will be secured, supplementing that derived from the wheat crop and magnifying improving the condition of the farmer in Western Canada.

Holds Unusual Job

A job such as few women ever enjoyed is that held by a Miss Williams, who for 20 years has been the official ship reporter at Highland Light, on the tip end of Cape Cod. Day in and day out, holidays and Sundays and all, she watches the ships that pass her window, identifies them and telegraphs the information to the office of various shipping companies in New York or Boston or Baltimore.

Relief For Dry Areas

Decision to appropriate up to $1,500 for relief in dried out areas of Saskatchewan was reached at a meeting of the Central Board of Saskatchewan Grain Growers Association at Regina. Sympathy with the idea of amalgamation between the Farmers' Union and the Saskatchewan Grain Growers Association was expressed in a resolution by the board.

New Brunswick's Moose and Guides Are Ready

MOOSE SWIMMING A LAKE

CALLING A MOOSE

Nine million acres of hunting grounds, woodland and waterways, where moose roam by the thousands, is what New Brunswick offers the hunter. Into this province each autumn pours a stream of hunters, each of whom is determined to bring back a pair of enormous antlers. Most of them do.

A French writer tells us that during the French occupation, 250 years ago, as many as 3,000 moose hides were brought down the St. John River in a single season. Tradition holds the story of a raft loaded with 141 carcases, that floated down the Tobique to furnish the makings of a huge barbecue. Those were days of unbridled license in hunting. Today, wise game laws protect the forest moose fairly well; except for 8 weeks each fall, he is immune from legal killing.

During the 8 weeks Mr. Moose must pit his strategy and cunning against gun-laden men. The legal protection ensures the perpetuation of these animals and the continuance of royal sport.

One may plunge into a New Brunswick wilderness at many points and come out with a bagged moose, but the better hunting districts are along the Miramichi, Restigouche, Tobique, Nopisiquit, St. Croix, St. John and Madawaska Rivers, where both moose and guides flourish. The Nopisiquit claims the honor of having produced one of the largest heads ever taken out of Canada. It was taken in 1917 and has well formed antlers with a spread of 72 inches and 37 points. This trophy fell to the lot of an Ontario hunter, and two other fine heads with spreads of 68" and 66 inches fell to

Rhode Island and New Hampshire men.

Two methods are followed in moose hunting—calling and stalking. The first is practiced during the first weeks of the hunting season and takes advantage of the mating instinct to lure the bull moose to sudden death while he is in the rut. The other method is often termed "still hunting" and calls into play the highest art of hunter and guide to get within shooting distance, for a moose's sense of smell is very keen and a faintest scent of man sends him plunging out of reach. Cows and calf moose are protected at all times, so too, are bulls under three years of age.

The season for moose hunting in New Brunswick is Oct. 1st to Nov. 30th, and the bag limit is one bull moose and two deer per hunter.

The genuine seigneur winced involuntarily. It was a very bad joke, he doubted that he ever would become accustomed to Sergeant Seymour spoken of as murdered—done for.

"Shoot," he heard Brewster invite. "It's this way, Phil. Seymour must have been quite a responsible member of the Force. As you said this a.m., his snuffing is going to make a noisy run-back. I got to report it to somebody in the Mounted—but who and where?"

Seymour fledged uneasily in the silence that followed, evidently due to Brewster's considering his answer. He detested eavesdropping; never had resorted to it on any of his cases. By way of letting the sergeant know of his presence, he scraped his chair noisily over the bare floor. This warning, however, failed to catch Brewster, or even to lower his voice.

"I remember reading that Vancouver is the nearest coast office of this new Canadian Mounted Police, but I've just been thinking— If they send a lot of Mounties into Gold and run down these stage-robbing murders, you're not going to get any credit. I'm strong for home industry, even in justice. Why don't you delay reporting the sergeant's death until you land your man?"

"Say, you're a real friend, Phil. Even if you do try to ride me sometimes, I need the credit for turning a trick like that. It might make me a hero when the old man gets through. But—what would I care?"

Seymour started for the hall but on the way, heard Brewster's reply: "Write your report, Sam, but don't post it until after tomorrow's mail has gone. That'll give you a week. Then address the letter to Ottawa, which will give you a few days more. In that time, you ought to have the murderers rounded up. You can forget what I told you about there being any Vancouver horsemen."

Surprise at such advice from a seemingly public-spirited citizen delayed Seymour's knock until he had heard it through. Of course, all this might be merely a sign of real, though mistaken, friendship for Hardley. On the other hand, was it possible that Brewster had personal reasons for wishing to delay the coming of the Mounties?

With this question to the fore of his mind, Seymour knocked on the adjoining door and was invited in. His entry seemed not to disturb either of the two.

"Just wanted to tell you that the next room is occupied and that the grilling between is more or less of a

Toronto, Ont.—"It is pretty hard to explain your medicine in nervous troubles. I felt low spirited, had pains in my head and eyes, always crying, and did not want to go anywhere. I do knitting and fancy work, and I would get irritable after a few minutes of work. I have been for about five years and have been this way ever since I came. I am taking Lydia E. megaphone," he said in a light tone. "If you're any secret."

Brewster's laugh was natural enough to be reassuring. "If we were talking secrets, stranger, we'd take to the brush. I've lived in the Bonanza since the day it was opened, and I don't even think secrets behind these make-believe walls."

The sergeant shared his unintentional eavesdropping with a shrug and turned to the deputy. Out on the trail this morning you seemed to think you might wait me later. You'll know now where to find me—Room number twelve."

"Forget this a.m. old topper. I was maybe a little mite excited out there at the scene of the crime. There ain't such a lot of difference between deputy sheriffs and mounted sergeants. It might-a been me lying there dead-er than dead. Your happening alone looked sort of queer. I'm aseeing draughtier now. You're welcome to Gold and I hope you get what you come for."

"You'll find me strong for law and order," Seymour replied. This seemed to invite Hardley to a confidential. Beckoning Seymour from the doorway, he edged his chair close to the cot on which Brewster reclined in his stinking rest.

"Don't mind telling you two in confidence," he leaned forward and whispered, "that I'm in a fair way in nabbing the two who robbed the stage and killed Tabor and Seymour. Maybe I ain't seemed to be doing much, but I've got them nearly ready."

"You have?" cried Brewster, hunching himself into a sitting position on the cot.

Hardley nodded assuredly. "There were two of them in the bush lying for the morning. One had a Winchester 30-30 and used it to kill Seymour. One rode a horse that was in front but plain as the nose on his face. He was in the country, paused, evidently, from his expression, to collect the encomiums he considered his due."

"Important if true, Sam," Brewster observed. "Admitted the Mountie, honestly surprised; his hand was in the trousers pocket that held the cartridge. He picked up the morning paper. 'How in the world did you learn all this?'"

Hardley seemed to relish supplying the details, even though he had to whisper them. Apparently he had reason to think that one of the sergeants was an utter stranger both to him and to the camp, one whose name even he did not know. His country official vanity advanced to the nth degree.

"Pratt dug out the bullet, which fixed the brand of the gun with which the deed was done. Then I've got him dead by my own staff who's keen as a Gordon settler in the bush. He found the horse track of the two from the scene of the crime. I'm looking for a man with a 30-30 repeater and a horse that's shy on shoes."

Surprised that Hardley should have shown so much ill-will and apprehensive that he was getting too near "home" for comfort, Seymour framed a discreet question.

"What do you know about the chap who was killed?"

"You mean this last one—Staff-Sergeant Seymour?" asked the deputy in turn, but merely as a preface, not waiting for an answer. "Kirkby of the First Bank has heard of him. Says he was nicknamed 'Sergeant Scarlet' in the Northwest territory and was guilty of some of the hardest patrol ever made. He must have been a regular fighting machine. Autopsy proved that."

"Sergeant Scarlet? That was the nickname Midge had for him?" Brewster, to be sure, had used it before his beautiful Irisher. Perhaps his reputation as a man-gutter had spread further than he knew.

Anyway, his chance to check up on Widow Caswell had arrived sooner than he expected. He showed casual but sufficient interest in the disclosures mentioned.

"The sergeant had been under fire before, and more than once," declared Hardley. "The doctor found an silver plate bracing his spine high up between the shoulders. And, would you believe it, there was a dent in that plate, which looked as if he'd been hit in the identical repair spot by some later bullet!"

"Checked to a T," thought Seymour of the widow's tale.

He became more than ever anxious to be clear of the talkative deputy. With all his false surmises, the natural-born brawler had some of the accurate information and might make a deal of trouble for him. At first chance he got back to his room.

With a few swift strokes, he completed and signed his report. His O. C. must be prepared for the murder report, whether Hardley finally acted on Brewster's advice or not.

Hurrying from the hotel into King Street, Seymour found the sergeant and mailed his letter. Then, although the hour was only seven, he advanced casually upon the Home Restaurant. He was eager to be on his way to the creeks before Hardley stumbled, as possibly he might, upon the fact that Seymour's rifle, stored with his outfit, was a 30-30 and that Kaw was "shod in front and plain behind."

CHAPTER XIX.

Into the Night

"You were saying, Mrs. Caswell—" Seymour's wait at one of the Home's small tables had been long drawn. The slender widow was "worked" "to cook and serve the tide of customers that, by perverse chance, had set in particularly strong tonight. Fortunately, all were strangers to the sergeant and he congratulated himself that he had attracted only passing notice as he sat seemingly absorbed in the fiction magazine, with his coffee never quite finished before him. He had gained nothing by coming east for it was nearly nine o'clock when at last they found themselves alone.

"Are you too tired to talk, Mrs. Caswell? You've had a hard day," the sergeant interrupted himself. The widow smiled wanly, a grateful light in her eyes, but replied that she would prefer to "have it over with."

"Feel as you like," he considered, for appearance's sake supporting her weary self by leaning over a stool, instead of sitting down at the table beside him. "Where was I this afternoon when that old pest broke in?"

"I trust you'll not come bothering around here again," the sergeant continued the momentary disapproval. "I'm not sure of it, but I had better say so."

"After a smile, and not of approval, she said, 'I don't mind coming here around here again.'"

"You were telling me what that bird had in view up the creeks. Some of the 'gold' he had had in mind. The way you put it!"

"His very words," the widow went on, her eyes glowing with interest. "Naturally, I was curious, for I thought the gold was all there was to be had. Doubtless, her thoughts were what he meant. With that, her lips were stilled and a dreamy look came into her eyes."

The sergeant did not believe that she had paused with aggravating in her recent life, but that fact did not stop her from any of her thoughts with the departed roger. But her recent life, but that fact did not stop her from any of her thoughts with the departed roger. But her recent life, but that fact did not stop her from any of her thoughts with the departed roger.

"Yes—yes!" he prodded, glancing at the table to suggest a time reason for his hurry.

"Why, I just took me into his arms in a gentle, big bear way he had at times—said 'I'll never forget it made me so happy.'"

Again she was living over what evidently had been the big moment of her recent life, but that fact did not stop her from any of her thoughts with the departed roger. But her recent life, but that fact did not stop her from any of her thoughts with the departed roger.

"For another brief moment, Margaret Caswell succeeded in forgetting all else."

"The talk was the morning after the unfortunate stage-business," she went on for an answer. "Kirkby of the First Bank had heard of him. Says he was nicknamed 'Sergeant Scarlet' in the Northwest territory and was guilty of some of the hardest patrol ever made. He must have been a regular fighting machine. Autopsy proved that."

running this eating place, until I heard from him. You see, it was safe enough, for we had been very careful and no one suspected that there was any relationship. After that evening, I never saw Bart again to speak to."

That she might not yield to this call upon her emotions, Seymour put out a couple of rapid fire questions. "You think, then, that one of these so-called Montreal crooks got him? Any line on them?"

Relics Of By-Gone Days

Brings Home Old Chest of Spanish Pirates From Southern Seas

Relics full of romance have been brought from the Caribbean Sea to Toronto by W. W. Tretheway, owners of his yachting club. He obtained them from Sam Brown, a treasure-seeker, who is constantly searching in this sea for ancient spoil.

One of Mr. Tretheway's adventures is an ornate hammered steel chest of the pirate period of 300 years ago, when buccaners adventuring from the Spanish Main took what they found and asked no man's authority.

This chest has heavy handles, an excellent key-lock of four cut steel, and is bound with steel bands back and front. Deep notched catches at the side assist its security. The rust of the sea for three centuries has eaten it through in places, but it is easily seen that it was a very serviceable property.

When found it was partly covered in Spanish gold and silver coin and short pieces of bullion. As it is two feet high and three and a half long, it could easily contain a fortune. Along with this is another smaller one of iron.

It is not nearly so ornamental as the other, but probably has had quite as interesting a history.

CONSTIPATED CHILDREN

Constipation is one of the most common ailments of childhood and the child suffering from it positively cannot thrive. To keep the little one well the bowels must be kept regular and the stomach sweet. To do this nothing can equal Baby's Own Tablets. They are a mild but thorough laxative; are pleasant to take and can be given to the new-born babe with perfect safety. Thousands of mothers use no other medicine for their little ones but Baby's Own Tablets. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

COPY OF AGREEMENT.

THIS AGREEMENT MADE IN DUPLICATE THIS 18th DAY OF OCTOBER, 1924.

BETWEEN:

THE MUNICIPAL CORPORATION OF THE TOWN OF STONY PLAIN, hereinafter called the Lessors, of the first part, and of the Town of Stony Plain, Alberta, Lumber Merchants, hereinafter called the Lessees, of the second part.

WHEREAS the Lessees are the owners of a planning mill on the East side of Main Street, in the Town of Stony Plain, the machinery of which is operated by steam power.

WHEREAS the Lessors are contemplating the erection of an Electric Light pole line and street lighting in the Town of Stony Plain.

AND WHEREAS the Lessors and Lessees have agreed that the Lessors shall lease the said pole line to the Lessees subject to the terms hereinafter provided.

NOW THIS AGREEMENT WITNESSETH that in consideration of the rents, covenants and agreements hereinafter reserved and contained on the part of the Lessees to be paid, kept, observed and performed, the Lessors have demised and leased, and by these presents doth demise and lease unto the Lessees the said electric light pole line for a period of Ten (10) years from the date hereof, at the yearly rental of Three Hundred and sixty ($360.00) Dollars per year, payable monthly on the last day of each and every month.

1. The Lessees agree to install in their mill premises a generator of sufficient capacity and other necessary machinery to supply all residents of the town with sufficient electric current for all their purposes and to distribute same by the said pole line to all the residents of the Town so connected with the line or hereafter will be connected with the line.

2. The Lessees agree to repair and maintain the said pole line wear and tear excepted, in as good a condition as when this lease becomes operative.

3. The Lessees shall own sufficient meters for the purpose of the electric light users which they shall lease to the users at the rental of Twenty-five (25) Cents per month. The Lessees agree and consent to owners of premises or users of electricity owning their own meters provided it is a standard meter.

4. The Lessees agree that they will generate sufficient electric current for the purposes of all the residents of the Town of Stony Plain and for the purpose of the street lighting during each and every day during the term hereby granted, from the hour of Six o'clock a.m. each day to One o'clock a.m. the following day, and any other extended time as may hereafter be mutually agreed to, and day service to be as may be hereafter arranged between the parties.

5. It is expressly understood and agreed by the parties hereto that the essence of this contract is quality and continuity of service by the Lessees and that the Lessees will furnish a standard of service which shall be equal to that obtainable in similar electric light plants and under similar conditions at the date of this contract.

6. The meters for the measurement of electric energy to be supplied under this contract may at any time, upon the request of the Lessors, be tested by some competent person and in the event of the meters being found inaccurate, the bill for electric energy supplied during the month last preceding such test shall be corrected in proportion of the error of the meter.

7. The rate to be charged for electricity by the Lessees from the users shall be such as is agreed to between the parties hereto or such as is fixed by the Board of Public Utility Commissioners of the Province of Alberta. The Lessors agree to take sufficient electricity for at least Six street lights.

8. The Lessees agree that they will not, without the consent in writing of the Lessors, assign or sublet the said premises or this contract or any part thereof.

9. The said Electric Light Plant and Pole Line shall be operated in a good and proper manner by the Lessees by competent workmen and the Lessees shall in no way be liable or responsible for any accident, loss or damage to property or person resulting, arising or accruing in any way from action, effect or use of the electricity or gas so supplied by the Lessees or from operating said Pole Line or distributing electric energy or any manner whatsoever.

10. If at any time during the continuance of this lease the operation or other work of the Lessees is suspended owing to war, rebellion or serious epidemic, or other causes of like nature beyond the control of the Lessees, or a serious breakdown in machinery or plant, the Lessees shall not be liable under this contract until such time as the cause of such suspension has been removed, provided that the Lessees shall take all reasonable precautions and adopt all reasonable measures and use all reasonable diligence to remove the cause of such suspension.

11. If and so often as any interruptions shall occur in the service of the Lessees due to any cause or causes other than hereinbefore provided for, the Lessees shall pay to the Town as liquidated and ascertained damages and not by way of penalty for such interruptions double the amount which they would have received for energy which should have been delivered during the time of such interruptions and all monies payable under this paragraph may be collected by action at law or by distress on the plant of the Lessees, provided that if such interruption shall extend for a period of one month, or the Lessees cease to deliver electric energy over the said Pole Line for a period of ten (10) days, then this agreement shall be null and void and the franchises of the Lessees determined. The Lessees shall have the right to immediately enter in and take possession of the said Pole Line and all rights of the Lessees under this agreement shall be determined and at an end.

12. The Lessees agree to distribute the said electric energy within ten days from the erection and completion of the said Pole Line.

13. This agreement to be binding on the Lessors only when approved of by the necessary vote of the burgesses of the Town of Stony Plain.

14. This agreement shall extend to and be binding upon and ensure to the benefit of the Heirs, Executors, Administrators, Successors and Assigns of the parties hereto.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF the Lessors have caused the Corporate Seal to be affixed in the presence of the Mayor and Secretary-Treasurer and the Lessees have hereunto set their hands and seals this 18th day of October, 1924.

TROUBLE OVER CROW'S NEST RATE DECISION

Ottawa.—Hon. George P. Graham, minister of railways and sailing premier, declined to discuss the situation that arises out of the judgment of the railway commission in the Crow's Nest rates case. "I have nothing to say," he remarked.

In government circles generally it is admitted that the judgment creates a situation that is awkward and delicate. The Crow's Nest agreement went into operation at the scheduled time, and the prairie provinces thus secured what they maintain they are entitled to, but when this happened, discriminations and disparities were created and gave rise to protests from governments or public bodies in the east as well as British Columbia in the west. The railway commission now intervenes and seeks to remedy the situation and remove the discrimination by the expedient of wiping out that part of the agreement effective last July, the part that relates to commodity rates from the east to the west. Grain and four rates eastward are not interfered with, but the board's judgment means that it has the right to do so.

Whether or not there is an appeal to the Supreme Court, the question assuredly will come up in parliament. Undoubtedly there will be proposals for a compromise, consisting of the maintenance of the Crow's Nest rates on grain and four eastward, but reverting to the old rates westward, or if not these exactly, at least to a scale which will be uniform, and not discriminatory. The situation will be aggravated by the potential political capital that is involved in it.

Emphasis will be laid on the fact that while the agreement is with the C.P.R., the Canadian National will need to follow suit and be the more acutely affected of the two. Thus, it will be argued, public ownership may be imperilled by demands from that part of the country where the principle of it is most vigorously supported.

Industrial Disputes

205,634 Working Days Lost During September

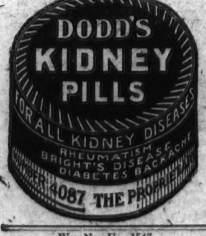

Ottawa.—There were, at some time during September, eight industrial disputes, involving 8,691 employees and a time loss of 205,634 working days, as compared with 16 disputes in August involving 10,469 workers and resulting in a time loss of 228,572 working days. Reports from the offices of the Employment Service of Canada show that at the beginning of September the percentage of unemployment among members of trade unions stood at 6.5, as compared with 5.4 at the beginning of August, and 2.2 at the beginning of September of last year.

Indian Would Have Representation In Senate

Montreal.—Senatorial representation for the Indian tribes of Canada is a possibility, according to assurance which Dr. J. H. Jacobs, full-blooded Inroquois, says he has given to him by Premier King, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux and others. Dr. Jacobs, who is medical officer of Caughnawaga, says that the tribes are too scattered to make representation in the Commons possible; and that their only hope of representation is through the Senate.

Wembley Exhibition Shows Gross Profit

Figures Will Amaze Public Says Chairman of Committee

London.—In toasting the exhibition officials at the Lord Mayor's dinner at the Mansion House in honor of the British Empire exhibition administration and the overseas representatives at which every part of the Empire was represented, Right Hon. J. H. Thomas, secretary for the colonies, in replying to assertions that the government's actions on certain matters were emulative, pleaded and loud applause, that the Empire be not made the by-play of party politics. The colonial office should be as free of party-bias as the foreign office.

When the figures for attendance and cost of the administration of the Wembley show were published, showing a large gross profit, the people would be amazed at what the exhibition had done, according to the claim of Sir James Stevenson, chairman of the standing committee of the exhibition, who spoke for the officials of the big fair.

While a decision had not yet been reached by the Dominions on the proposal to re-open the exhibition next year, he was very hopeful that they would agree to another run.

New Era In Transportation

Arrival of Dirigible Marks Beginning Of An Economic Revolution

Lakehurst, N.J.—The arrival of the ZR-3 opens a new era in world transportation and may mark the beginning of an economic revolution. Captain Anton Heinen, noted Zeppelin expert, told the United Press here.

"Within 25 years aircraft will be used as commonly as automobiles to-day. The dirigible will prove the strongest impetus the world has ever known for world-wide brotherhood through improving communications between distant places."

Big Flow of Gas From Oil Gusher Calgary.—Royalty No. 1 well, near Black Diamond, in the Turner valley field, 40 miles southwest of Calgary, blew in with a tremendous flow of gas, estimated at 19,000,000 cubic feet daily. There is a small quantity of light oil spraying out with the big gas flow. The Northwest Company, the development branch of the Imperial Oil Limited, which has been conducting a deep drilling test on the well, is allowing the gas to flow on the chance that the well will drill itself in to a real oil producer.

Sask. Co-operative Elevator Co. To Erect Plant in Buffalo

Regina.—Plans for the erection of a terminal transfer elevator at Buffalo, N.Y., by the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Co., Ltd., were made public by F. W. Riddell, general manager.

The elevator will have a capacity of 1,100,000 bushels and will be built at a cost of approximately $800,000. It is expected that the plant will be ready for operation by Aug. 1, 1925.

The completion of the Buffalo plant will see the forging of the final link of the organization, which will permit the shipment of grain direct from the farm to overseas markets.

The new transfer plant will occupy 12 acres of land.

London.—The foreign office announced that the failure of Great Britain and Turkey to reach an agreement on the Irak controversy, or on the interpretation of the resolution on the subject adopted, September 30th by the Council of the League of Nations, had resulted in a decision to refer the question back to the council for a decision. The necessary steps, it was stated, were being taken to inform the general secretary of the league. In the meantime, it is understood, neither side will advance its forces beyond the line now occupied.

New Canadian Pacific Lines

Extensions to Serve Tisdale, Wadena and Melfort

The Canadian Pacific have added to the system during the past two years 427 miles of new lines in the west. These lines tap rich farming communities and include extensions for Cutknife to Wadena, Tisdale to Melfort, Tafford to Wadena and Tisdale, Wymark to Codere, Mildred to McMoran, Gunworth to Matador, Consul to Cimax and Burdett to Schuler.

The Tisdale-Wadena line connects at Shoho and the Melfort-Wadena line at Langdon, with the Yorkton-Saskatoon-Edmonton lines of the Canadian Pacific, thus affording a new direct route to Southern, Eastern and Pacific Coast ports.

Regular passenger train service has been established by the company on all these lines.

Australian Surgeons Claim New Discovery

Believe Rigid Paralysis Can Be Cured By Operation

Chicago.—An operation, which is believed to offer a partial cure for rigid paralysis, was performed here by Dr. J. G. Hunter, professor of anatomy, and Dr. N. D. Koyte, orthopedic surgeon. Both men are attached to the University of Australia. Dr. Hunter, who is 27 years old, is reputed to be the discoverer of the method whereby the operation is performed.

It was explained that the operation is only effective in cases of rigid paralysis, where the patient suffers a twisted or deformed limb which he is unable to control. The surgeons sever from the spinal branch the nerves that cause the rigidity of the muscles. The limb is then loosened and can be controlled only by actual thought. No reflex action remains and the limb must be educated to function, as does a baby's hand.

Weekly Budget Cost

Ottawa.—The cost per week of a list of 29 staple foods for an average family of five in Canada, according to figures published in the current issue of the Labor Gazette, was $10.28 at the beginning of September, as compared with $10.19 for August, $10.46 for September, 1922, and $7.83 for September, 1914.

Boys U-north Treasure

Winnipeg.—Gold coins, some of them of ancient vintage, and jeweled ornaments, the whole worth probably $2,000, were unearthed from a cache that contained the Red River boys' treasure, playing on the river bank here. Their ownership is unknown.

FRANCE WOULD DISMANTLE THE ZEPPELIN WORKS

Paris.—The French reaction to the successful flight of the ZR-3 is a feeling that Germany should be called upon immediately to dismantle the Zeppelin works at Friedrichshafen as provided by the Treaty of Versailles. The French Government, however, is understood to be reluctant to place the subject before the ambassadors' council at this moment, because immense interest is aroused over the arrival of the dirigible.

The question whether Germany shall be allowed to build any more Zeppelins as large as the ZR-3 is within the province of the ambassadors' council to decide. The council, with great reluctance and after six months' insistence by the United States ambassador, gave permission to build the ZR-3, it being understood by all the governments represented on the council that this was an exception which could not be taken in future as a precedent.

Ambassador Herrick obtained the consent of the ambassadors' council, to a ship of 70,000 cubic meters capacity. The council, disregarding the collective negative opinion of the inter-allied military high commission, which ruled against the request because military opinion was absolutely opposed to authorize Germany to perfect an air fleet. When Mr. Herrick took the question up with his individual colleagues on the ambassadors' council, all four governments, British, French, Italian and Belgian, denied having taken the least action, the refusal and placed the responsibility on the others. Japan preserved an attitude of reserve.

THIS SEASON'S TRANS-CANADA MILEAGE EQUALLED THREE TRIPS TO THE MOON

The Trans-Canada Limited, the crack transcontinental express of the Canadian Pacific Railway, operated from May to September, completed its 1924 schedule on September 13th, when its last trains started and on September 17th these trains steamed into the termini at Montreal and Vancouver, bringing to a close one of the service's most successful seasons. The train covers the 2,886 miles of its run between the two cities in 90 hours and the Toronto-Vancouver run of 2,707 miles in 86 hours.

Mr. C. B. Foster, Passenger Traffic Manager, summing up the season's performance, gave out some remarkably interesting figures which afford a partial insight into the magnitude of the task of maintaining such a service. The Trans-Canada Limited began its runs this year on May 18th, and before being discontinued made 119 trips in each direction, or 238 in all. The equipment of the train is limited to one baggage, one dining car, four standard sleepers, one 10-compartment car Vancouver to Montreal, and one 16-compartment car Toronto to Winnipeg, with a drawing room-3-compartment observation sleeper Montreal to Vancouver, plus a local sleeper on the west-bound movement only from Fort William to Winnipeg. Thus the maximum accommodation available in each direction between the East and Winnipeg is forty-eight sections, twenty-three compartments and five drawing rooms, while between Winnipeg and the Coast there are forty-eight sections, thirteen compartments and five drawing rooms. The average number of passengers on the train at night varies from seventy-five to 110 on different sections of the line, but for the 119 days the train was in service last season there was a one-night use of approximately 100,000 berths. The east-bound and west-bound trains together covered 6,252 miles every day, which includes the distance between Montreal and Vancouver, 2,886 miles, and between Toronto and Suburb, 260 miles, covered by each train and its Toronto-Suburb connection. Thus the season's mileage was 753,748 for the 238 trips, or three times the distance from the earth to the moon.

Each day four Trans-Canada trains were in motion over the Company's line in each direction. At 5 A.M. each day, one was west-bound between Carleton Place and Cheltenham, one between Kenora and Winnipeg, one between Medicine Hat and Calgary, and one between North Bend and Vancouver, while at the same hour one east-bound was approaching Glacier, one approaching Regina, one east of Fort William and one between Cheltenham and Ottawa. Ten complete sets of equipment, of which four were in motion each way every day and one was being cleaned, refilled and repaired at each end of the line, were required to maintain the service.

The year's schedule called for 22 changes of engine on every Trans-Canada run from Montreal to Vancouver and two engines for the Toronto-Suburb connection made by each train. There were 48 engine runs daily for the service. Including these engine-stops, the trains made only 26 stops on their whole run. It is on this steady movement at a uniform speed over long distances and not on high speed that the train maintained their fast schedules over the transcontinental journey and the elimination of all but essential stops resulted in the smooth running for which it is noted. Owing to the necessity of changing train crews on such a long run, about 14 crews, or about 84 men, were required for one trip on each train, while 48 sleeping and dining-car employees were required for each trip on one train or nearly 400 men for this branch of the Trans-Canada service. None of the hundreds of employees whose duties also associate them with the Trans-Canada Limited, but who do not travel with it, is included in these figures.

One On the Boss

Trading Excited His Interest — In these days of big business deals and over-night fortunes, one is not surprised at anything, but—

In the peaceful quietude of the moonlit recess from the bustle of business, the boss of a big commercial establishment was enjoying the tranquility of his after lunch reverie. The door of his private office closed slightly ajar, and from beyond came the occasional bustle of the office boy and the click of his heels guiding the progress of the business during the lunch hour. Suddenly through the open window behind him came voices—

"I'll trade you one of my Marmon for a Ford!"

Here was his business to be sure, but there was a catch in it somewhere. The business man rubbed his eyes. Was he dreaming? But the reply was even more astonishing.

"I haven't got a Ford to spare, but I'll tell you what, I've got two Hudsons and a Studebaker I don't want, and I'll swap you for a Chevrolet."

Here was big business with a vengeance; the commercial man decided he must get a look at the perpetrator of such hectic bargaining. He slipped to the open window. Below on the sidewalk was his office boy with a telegraph messenger. They were swapping Guinness Gold Cigarette cards in an effort to complete a series.

He returned to the cigar, muttering, "They're on me."

The fish-hook cactus is a trust-worthy compass of the desert, so, no matter how hot the sun, it always points towards the south.

Milner's Liniment for Sprains and Bruises

For the first time since the western route via Vancouver became operative for Alberta wheat shipments farmers are to receive this year a price based on the Vancouver basis instead of that of Fort William, which has been the basis of payment for years. The wheat pool officials have announced that the initial payment this season will be $1.00 per bushel on the Vancouver basis, which means that the farmer will gain the advantage of the lesser freight charge.

"Cheese—ways to Serve it" is the name of a little booklet every housewife, particularly every mother, should have. It contains nearly a hundred tested, economical recipes besides a wealth of authoritative facts about cheese. It suggests ways to serve "something different" in the menu of children and grown ups without sacrificing essential nourishment. It is indexed, illustrated in color—and free. SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

OCTOBER 28
THE STILLING OF THE STORM
Golden Text: Who then is this, that even the wind and the sea obey him?—Mark 4:41.
Lesson: Mark 4:45-51.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 107:23-32.

The Text Explained and Illumined. The Storm, verses 35-57. On the day of which Jesus had spoken many parables he said to his disciples at evening, "Let us go over unto the other side." And they obeyed, taking Him with them, "even as He was," in the boat. What an insight into the human phases of Jesus does that little phrase—even as He was—give us! The day had been severe in its demands upon His physical strength, and he was tired out. This same boat had been his pulpit (last lesson), and when His discourse was ended, overcome by weariness, He sank back in the stern and fell asleep. He needed rest as do we. These illusions in the Gospels to Christ's weariness, need of sleep or of food, are certain proofs of his perfect humanity. "What strikes us here is that He had learned to relax," to use the language of today. No sooner was his work done, than he composed himself to sleep, and as comfortably as possible He used the cushion as his pillow. Some people break down because they have never learned to relax. Their work done, they cannot rest. Their minds are still busy. If we are to work to the full, we must learn to drop the yoke swiftly and to rest with both mind and body. Jesus is an example in this also" (R. C. Gilie).

Suddenly there arose a great wind storm, and the waves came into the boat so that it began to fill. There have always been sudden and violent storms on the Sea of Galilee. For explanation see The Geographical Background.

An Oil Without Alcohol—Some oils and many medicines have alcohol as a prominent ingredient. A judicious mixing of six essential oils compose Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, and there is no alcohol in it, so that its effects are lasting.

To Speed Air Service

British Lines Plan Half-Hour Service To Paris — An airplane to and from Paris every half-hour, for passengers and freight, is included in the programme of development which the British air lines have drawn up for the future. Traffic by air the past summer was greater by far than ever before, both on the continent and between the continent and England. Those who are operating the air services expect continued development. The British lines have several 16-seater planes under construction at present. Americans, though they have few commercial air routes of their own, continue to be the best patrons of the European services.

RHEUMATIC PEOPLE CAN NOW FIND RELIEF

By Driving the Poisonous Acid From the System — Rheumatism attacks people when the blood is thin and watery, or charged with impurities, thus setting up inflammation of the muscles and joints. Cold, wet weather or sharp winds may start the pains, but the cause is rooted in the blood and to get relief it must be treated through the blood. As a blood builder and nerve tonic, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are unsurpassed, and for that reason do not fail to give relief to rheumatic sufferers when given a fair trial. Among the rheumatic sufferers who have proved the great value of this medicine is Mrs. Elvira J. Taiton, Indian Head, Sask., who says:—"For over two years I was an intense sufferer from rheumatism and until I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills no treatment that I took helped me any. The trouble grew so bad that I could not move around the house without help, and finally I had to give up and go to bed. Words cannot tell how much I suffered, and I could not bear to have anyone come near me. Finally one of my neighbors strongly urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to do so." In the course of a few weeks I could feel an improvement, and I was able to get up. I kept on taking the pills until all traces of the trouble were gone, and I could again do my housework, feeling like a new person. Three years have passed since that and there has never been the slightest return of the trouble, so that I feel safe in saying that the trouble grew so bad that I could not move around the house without help, and finally I had to give up and go to bed. Words cannot tell how much I suffered, and I could not bear to have anyone come near me. Finally one of my neighbors strongly urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to do so." In the course of a few weeks I could feel an improvement, and I was able to get up. I kept on taking the pills until all traces of the trouble were gone, and I could again do my housework, feeling like a new person. Three years have passed since that and there has never been the slightest return of the trouble, so that I feel safe in saying that the trouble grew so bad that I could not move around the house without help, and finally I had to give up and go to bed. Words cannot tell how much I suffered, and I could not bear to have anyone come near me. Finally one of my neighbors strongly urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to do so." The Chicken Supper

The chicken supper at the Methodist Church on Monday night turned out to be all the promoters had promised—and then some. The dairy repast was well patronised, and all enjoyed themselves thoroughly on the good things served up. The Ladies Aid is to be congratulated on the success of the affair. The recitation which followed "Jean Val Jean," by "Pastor Knight of Edmonton, was greatly appreciated by those fortunate to hear him.

The members of the Ladies Aid wish to thank the following ladies who helped to make the supper a success by generously contributing the chickens, cream and vegetables:

Mrs John Staub
Mrs A. Klapper
Mrs Rebecca Larson
Mrs Melcher Larson
Mrs Ben Lander
Mrs Dora Barker
Mrs Fred Williams
Mrs Charles Williams

"Tough" on the Farmers.

The good times promised for local farmers a short time ago—with a fairly good yield in sight and prices on the up-rise—are not being realised, at least not to the extent expected. What is practically an embargo is now on, so a majority of farmers think, when it comes to marketing grain, as it seems practically impossible to get a straight grade on any grain brought in.

Of course this applies mostly to those farmers who have hurried threshing operations, and now find themselves up against it when they come to market the grain.

Still, there are others who claim they have complied with all the requirements for keeping their grain from being classed as "tough," and now find themselves suffering along with those who were careless.

An instance is given of three farmers in the Spruce Grove district who hauled in loads of their 1923 wheat, and were informed it graded "tough," and that they must stand the night dockage.

Hoboes Due for a Shock.

Gentlemen of leisure who follow the illegal and dangerous practice of "hopping" on freight trains, whenever their business calls them from one place of temporary residence to another, are due for a rude shock. A determined drive against those who do their travelling in "side-door pullmans" or by riding the rods has been launched by all the railway companies, and this drive is to be prosecuted to the bitter end.

Quite Appropos.

At Chester, in the suburbs, a few Sundays ago, a teetotal preacher, in concluding an eloquent sermon on temperance, declared: "All intoxicating liquors should be seized and thrown into the river."

Shortly after he announced the closing hymn, which happened to be "Shall We Gather at the River."—The Toronto Globe.

Here and There

Moose hunting opened in the Province of Quebec on September 10th. Indications are that an unusually large number of hunters will invade the woods this fall and the rush for licenses is well under way.

Edward A. Patterson, mining engineer of London, England, visiting Nova Scotia, states that the mineral resources of that province are practically lying dormant and that with proper development along scientific lines, mining could be advanced to first place in the province's industries.

Calgary, Alta., is planning an artificial ice rink because of the prevalence of chinooks in the winter, but the project will not be carried out in time for the coming season. Calgary had to abandon its scheme for an annual winter carnival because it could not count on weather that was cold enough or on snow.

The members of the band of the famous Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry were among the passengers sailing for England aboard the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of France" on September 17th. Under the direction of Lieut. T. W. James, they are to play of the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley.

The Duke de Alba, 17th of that name and 10th Duke of Berwick in the British nobility, together with the Duchesses of Alba and several other distinguished Spaniards, is touring Canada over Canadian Pacific lines. Their itinerary includes Niagara, Falls, Montreal, Banff, Lake Louise, Vancouver and Victoria.

Transformation for the better wrought among the Robinsons in the last 25 years is almost unbelievable, so Bishop I. O. Stringer, of the Anglican diocese of the Yukon, reported on a recent visit to Edmonton, Alta. The Bishop attributes this improvement to the influence of the missionaries and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The "Calgary process," the newest method of oil refining, was examined with interest by the members of the British Association for the Advancement of Science during their recent visit to Calgary, Alta. This process has become world-famous ever since the experiments conducted at the local Imperial oil refinery proved so successful.

Thousands of Belgians are waiting to cross the Atlantic to Canada as soon as the Dominion can assimilate them; it is reported by authorities in touch with the situation. Belgium's interest in Canada is further evidenced by the visit to the Dominion of Louis Straton, a member of the diplomatic corps and member of the Belgian Parliament for Antwerp, who, as guest of E. W. Beatty, Chairman and President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, is touring the country studying economic conditions with a view to stimulating Belgian immigration.

The first all-British direct cable service between Montreal and London was opened on August 12th by the Canadian Pacific Telegraphs. At business warrants, this service will be extended to embrace other Canadian cities with which it is now connected but which, as yet, cannot offer a reasonable return for a regular service. Messages were exchanged between the London Chamber of Commerce and the Montreal Board of Trade and between the Canadian and the English headquarters of the Bank of Montreal, conveying expressions of mutual goodwill and proposing closer relations as a result of the improved cable facilities.
